One Day among more.....

“You will most probably depart Hobart, and certainly traverse the staging post of Sorell visiting the Tasman Peninsula”
You can engage in our unique coastal environment in so many ways, be that by; selected short walks, the immersion in the four-day world renown Three Capes Track experience, a cruise by sea, or air, or a combination of all.

The recent upgrade of the Shipstern and Cape Raoul track (the third cape) has opened up this area accessing the southernmost point on the Tasman Peninsula and Shipstern Bluff which boasts some of the most challenging surf riding waves in the world.

The Convict Trail offers the opportunity to explore Tasmania’s convict heritage in places where the past seems just a clink of chains away. Convicts could be sent here ‘for the term of their natural lives’... you won’t need that long to explore the Convict Trail but you will certainly need more than a day! It takes most people a minimum of four hours to see Port Arthur Historic Site alone and the Tasman Peninsula is dotted with ruins that echo the stories of the men who were among the most hardened of the convicts sent to Tasmania.

There’s so much to see and do on this journey - far too much for one day! Remember to book accommodation so you can enjoy the attractions and activities of the Tasman and don’t forget to include the spine-chilling nightly ghost tour at Port Arthur.

The Convict Trail - TASMAN PENINSULA & PORT ARTHUR

Day Two of others.....

“Wake refreshed early to start a most unforgettable journey of the Tasman Peninsula.”
As you travel towards the Tasman Peninsula there are plenty of places that cater for the seafood lover, fresh fruit fancier, local freshly roast coffee or even lavender infused products. Your first stop could be fresh fruit farm just south of the historic town of Sorell. Dunalley offers cafes, authentic fish and chips as well as oysters, home farm produce and wines. While at Dunalley also visit the historic Abel Tasman marker, commemorating Tasman’s visit to the area in 1642. Explore the man made Denison Canal, cross the swing bridge at Dunalley and continue towards the Tasman Peninsula. For an unforgettable photographic moment take the turn off to the Tasman Sea Cliffs Lookout that provides an amazing view across Eaglehawk Neck and Pirates Bay to the Tasman Peninsula… land of the highest sea cliffs in the southern hemisphere. Crossing the Neck you’re on the peninsula proper. If you have not pre-booked, find the accommodation venue that suits your needs. Rest and relax! Talk to your host for dinner recommendations, in house, at a local restaurant or eatery. Your host can also advise you as to what’s hot right now. * Please note that some eateries referred to are seasonal. Checking ahead and bookings are always appreciated.

Incarceration, whiskey, westerly waterways, and our regional capital.

Sometime during your visit Port Arthur will feature. When leaving there consider a trip towards Nubeena, aboriginal for “crayfish”, the principality of the Tasman Peninsula. It is now predominately a fishing and farming village that produces crayfish, abalone, sea urchins and Tasmanian salmon and home of the largest pear and apple orchard in Tasmania. A popular destination for Hobart shackies, Nubeena offers a bank, ATM, doctors and pharmacy, various general stores and eateries set upon Parsons Bay. Ops, missed the whiskey back at Radnor and could have dropped into Highcroft as well, the beginning walk to the legendary surf spot Shipsterns Bluff, or Cape Raoul.

Then continuing on the journey a leisurely drive through to the convict buildings at Koonya passing the Old Trading Store before heading to Saltwater River and the Historic Coal Mines, a place of even more despicable happenings than Port Arthur. Walk into the underground solitary cells that are still there today and be amazed at the ingenuity of our forefathers who used gravity to load coal onto the ships at Plunkett Point. Continue on to Lime Bay and where you can stroll along the deserted beaches.
Eating, Drinking & Things to do

Old Trading Store

Experience the Three Capes Track

You, a pack, and 46 kilometres of cliff-hugging dramatic coastal wildness. The Port Arthur Historic Site is your start and end point. A purpose-built boat delivers you to the track start. Migratory whales, dolphins or fur seals are complimentary, as are Southern Aurora sightings.

Pack light; the overnight stops are equipped with gas cooktops, comfy mattresses and generous dining tables where new friendships may forge.

Walk side by side up mosaic stone steps and let nature’s drama unfold. Here, your senses will be refreshed and your heart will skip a beat (regularly). Stand on nature’s edge. Hear the silence and be overcome with awe. Move through tall eucalypt forest and colourful coastal heath. The Tasman Sea is your constant. This is your therapy. They say walking can be transformative, four days and three nights on a track so meticulously crafted you’re free to enjoy your experience rather than watching every step. Look up, look out, look within. And when it’s all over, don’t rush off, enjoy all this region has to offer.

COME FACE TO FACE

Join us for a remarkable face to face encounter with endangered Tasmanian devils.

Our innovative Unzoo is a large native botanic garden with no boundary fences that is home to dozens of very special native creatures - wild pademelons, honeyeaters, parrots, quolls, friendly kangaroos, frogmouths, possums and hawks and a Birds of the Bush free-flight show.

There are three ways to visit us. The first is drive yourself to the Unzoo. We’re open every day from 9am.

Secondly you can add a 4WD Devil Tracker Adventure into local forest to see how we track some of the last isolated wild devils on the planet with special infra-red cameras.

The third option is a one day tour from Hobart which includes a Tracker Adventure, the Unzoo and lunch.

FOLLOW THE YELLOW BOAT ROAD
As you exit the Tasman Peninsula, drop into the historic Dog Line, the free museum at the Officer’s Quarters (the oldest timber military building in Australia) and also view the amazing Tessellated Pavement at Eaglehawk Neck.

Then as you depart via Pirates Bay Drive, one last glance back of the majestic Tasman Peninsula from the Tasman Sea Cliffs Lookout and think about the places you may have missed; Roaring Beach, Remarkable Cave, White Beach, Cape Hauy, the Candle Stick, and the Three Capes Track or a sighting of the Southern Aurora.

Then there are the places you could have stayed from seaside cottages to 4 star digs and all between. Ghosts abound, as does wildlife; sea and coastal and forest based too. We know you’ll be back.
